

Storyboard Rubric: The Three Little Pigs

<https://americanliterature.com/childrens-stories/the-three-little-pigs>

Categories and Criteria	1	2	3	4	5
Format	No sectioning is evident. Content is random and all over the place.	Sections are not clearly defined. Content is scattered and not in proper order.	A few sections are defined. Some are in the correct order; some content is out of place.	Most of the sections are defined. The sections are in the correct order; some content is out of place.	All six sections are clearly defined. The sections are in the correct order and contain the proper content.
Content	Content is inaccurate or lacking in completeness. Pictures are not related to written content.	Less than 40% of the content is accurate or complete. Some pictures are supportive, others are not.	Only about 60% of the content is accurate or complete. Pictures are somewhat supportive.	Content is mostly accurate. Most pictures support written content.	Content is accurate. All pictures support written content.
Communication	Board is lacking in communication. Difficult to follow.	Board does not effectively communicate the events of The Three Little Pigs.	Board somewhat communicates key events of The Three Little Pigs. Not easy to follow.	Board effectively communicates key events of The Three Little Pigs. Fairly easy to follow.	Board very effectively communicates key events of The Three Little Pigs. Easy to follow.
Effort	Lack of effort is visible. Missing many elements. Information and pictures are incomplete or missing altogether.	Some effort can be seen. Several missing elements. Information and pictures are incomplete.	Effort is visible. A few areas are missing some elements. Information and pictures are basic.	Effort is clearly visible. Information and pictures go well together.	A wow product. Effort is clearly visible. Lots of information and well designed picture.

Comments: